New England wasted no time starting Sunday's match on the offensive, with MLS NEXT All-Star Cristiano Oliveira scoring on a shot from outside the box into the left-hand corner of the net off a feed from forward Liam Butts in the first minute. Oliveira's goal, the Somerville, Mass. native's third tally of the 2025 campaign, was the fastest of the season for Revolution II. Oliveira has now scored in consecutive matches.

Just five minutes later, forward Malcolm Fry converted on a cross into the penalty area from midfielder Gevorg Diarbian, extending New England's advantage to 2-0. Fry, a Homegrown Player from Groton, Mass., has found the back of the net three times across four appearances after returning to the pitch from a leg injury in May. Diarbian finished today's match with a game-high five shots, including three on target.

Down 2-0 just six minutes into Sunday's contest, the hosts opened their scoring with Fire FC II forward Dylan Borso's penalty kick goal in the 11th minute. Chicago equalized in the 27th minute, when midfielder Harold Osorio launched a free kick into the penalty area for defender Olu Oyegunle, who registered his first goal of the season with a strike into the top right-hand corner.

New England regained the lead just moments before halftime, when Butts scored the go-ahead goal on defender Damario McIntosh's first assist for Revolution II. Butts added his second goal of the afternoon in the 53rd minute, converting on Fry's helper to boost New England's lead to 4-2. Fry's goal-and-assist performance today was his first of the season.

Chicago closed the scoring in the 86th minute with a goal from Trip Fleming. With today's victory, New England improves its road record to 3-3-3 this season. At the conclusion of today's match, Revolution II rank seventh in MLS NEXT Pro with 1.8 points per game.
