The Revolution, winners of three in a row, embark on a two-match week to close the 2026 home slate. New England has collected points in 12 of 15 matches on home soil this season, registering a 10-3-2 record at Gillette Stadium. The Revolution's 10 home wins are tied for second-most leaguewide and only two shy of the club record. New England has won three straight home meetings with Red Bull New York dating back to 2023. However, Red Bull triumphed in the first meeting of the season, 1-0, back on February 28 in New Jersey.

New York, guided by first-year Head Coach Michael Bradley, snapped a two-game skid with a 2-0 shutout win over Lionel Messi and Inter Miami CF last weekend in New Jersey. Red Bull took an early lead in the seventh minute, before Emil Forsberg sealed the victory in stoppage time. Julian Hall, an 18-year-old striker, leads the attack with a team-best 11 goals, while Ghanaian midfielder Ronald Donkor owns 10 assists. Hall and midfielder Adri Mehmeti were two of the young stars to debut in the U.S. Men's National Team's most recent window, along with New England's own Peyton Miller and Brooklyn Raines.

New England reclaimed second place in the Eastern Conference with a 2-1 road victory at Philadelphia on Saturday night, snapping the Union's 15-match unbeaten streak. Forward Dor Turgeman celebrated his 23rd birthday with his 10th goal of the season. Along with Carles Gil's team-high 13 goals, this marks the seventh time the Revolution have two players with double-digit goals in the same season. The Israeli striker has flourished since the league's summer break, tallying eight of his 10 goals after the World Cup. Entering the week, Turgeman has seven goal contributions (4G, 3A) in the last six games alone.

With a goal and an assist on Saturday, Gil is now one goal contribution away from tying his career high of 26, set during the 2023 campaign. The five-time MLS All-Star needs one more assist to reach 100 for his MLS regular season career. He would become the first Revolution player and just the eighth in MLS history to reach the century mark. If he can achieve the milestone on Wednesday, it would coincide with the captain's 225th MLS appearance. Over 13 previous clashes with New York, Gil has recorded three goals and nine assists.

The Revolution's recent rise up the table has been aided by Matt Turner's impeccable play between the posts during another Best XI-caliber season from the U.S. international. Turner has posted 20 saves during the three-game winning streak, including six stops in Philadelphia to earn a spot on the MLS Team of the Matchday. Turner's next victory in goal would set a new personal best and club record for goalkeeper wins in a season. The 32-year-old goalkeeper owns a 3-3-2 career record against Red Bull New York.

The most recent victory saw a youthful backline in front of Turner, with all four starters aged 22 years or younger. Miller (18) shifted to left back after a long stretch of games in a more advanced position on the wings, and still managed to record his fourth assist in the last three games. He joined Ilay Feingold (22), Ethan Kohler (21), and Josh Wynder (21) at the back. Wynder, New England's most recent acquisition in September, has suited up for five consecutive starts in central defense.
