Marko Mitrović Leads Talented Roster into 2026

The Revolution embark on their first campaign under new Head Coach Marko Mitrović, a 15-year coaching veteran who takes the helm in New England after recently leading the U.S. Under-20 National Team to the quarterfinals of the FIFA U-20 World Cup. His squad will be anchored by United States goalkeeper Matt Turner in net and two-time MLS Best XI midfielder Carles Gil, the team's all-time leader in assists, who is aided by a deep arsenal of goalscorers.

Forward Leonardo Campana, who represents the World Cup-bound Ecuador National Team, is joined by forward Dor Turgeman, who scored three goals in his first three games to begin his MLS career. Adding to the speedy Argentine Luca Langoni, New England also brought in 23-year-old American winger Griffin Yow, a former U.S. Olympian returning stateside after more than three years in Belgium's topflight.

The Revolution midfield boasts a talented mix of youth and experience, featuring a combination of new and returning faces. Nigeria international Alhassan Yusuf and MLS veteran Matt Polster played a combined 60 league games last season. This offseason, New England added 20-year-old Brooklyn Raines, who featured for Mitrović at last year's FIFA U-20 World Cup.

They will help protect a backline that returns Colombian Brayan Ceballos and Mali international Mamadou Fofana in central defense, along with 18-year-old outside back Peyton Miller, an Academy alum and U.S. U-20 standout entering his third season. Miller, Raines, and defender Ilay Feingold were all named to last year's MLS 22 Under 22 list. The club's youth movement features seven Homegrown Players who ascended to the first team after developing in the Revolution Academy, including the latest addition in 17-year-old midfielder Cristiano Oliveira from Somerville, Mass.
