POSTGAME NOTES: Revolution Fall to Louisville City FC, 3-2, in U.S. Open Cup
Revs return to MLS action Saturday, June 9 at Chicago Fire

LOUISVILLE, Ky. – The New England Revolution fell to Louisville City FC (USL), 3-2, in the Fourth Round of the Lamar Hunt 2018 U.S. Open Cup on Tuesday evening. The match took place at Lynn Stadium on the campus of the University of Louisville. A back-and-forth first half saw the two sides level at the break, but a stunning goal from City's Brian Ownby in the second frame gave the hosts the victory and eliminated New England from the tournament.

New England jumped out to an early lead in the fifth minute when midfielder Mark Segbers finished a loose ball into the back of the net for his first Revolution goal. Louisville City equalized shortly after with a goal from Oscar Jimenez, assisted by Brian Ownby, in the 11th minute. The Revs took the lead once again in the 26th minute as a touch across the face of goal from Femi Hollinger-Janzen was put in by Louisville City defender Patrick McMahon for an own goal. City evened the match at 2-2 in the 37th minute when striker Cameron Lancaster slotted a low shot past Revs goalkeeper Brad Knighton.

In the second half, Brian Ownby gave Louisville City FC its first lead of the night as he gained possession and delivered an impressive strike into the upper-left corner. That 62nd-minute tally proved to be the game winner as the Revolution move to 8-3-3 all-time against USL competition in U.S. Open Cup play.
